This pediatric hospital is bed tertiary healthcare facility located in a major Midwest metropolis in the United States. This minimizes miscommunication and eliminates communication errors as the result of message or recipient failure. These include enhancing the quality of life for the child and family, minimizing suffering, optimizing functioning and providing opportunities for personal growth.

Effective communication is dependent upon the ability to gather, assimilate, and disseminate information. McGraw-Hill Book Co; Solomon and colleagues have outlined goals for pediatric palliative care. As a member of the healthcare team, the child life specialist provides a positive experience within the hospital setting for the patient and family.
